

ashley branum

Ashley is a consultant with Triad Consulting Group and a communications coach, mediator, and therapist. She works with individuals, teams, and organizations, helping them tackle their thorniest inter- and intrapersonal challenges.

Previously, she was a consultant at Vantage Partners, a management consulting firm spinoff of the Program on Negotiation at Harvard Law School. At Vantage, she worked with organizations and teams across a variety of industries to diagnose challenges, design solutions, and deliver programs to build capacity in negotiation, influence, and relationship management.

She has trained in and facilitated public dialogue with the Public Conversations Project, an organization that fosters constructive conversation where there is conflict. She is a consultant and facilitator for the Negotiation Workshop at Harvard Negotiation Institute, a week-long training for executives, attorneys, and other professionals. She also consults for the Negotiation Workshop at Harvard Law School.

Ashley is a graduate of Skidmore College, majoring in Psychology and Law and Society. She also holds a Masters degree in social work from Smith College School for Social Work.
